Woolf to Deliver 12th Annual Barbara Early-Vreeland Lecture

Daniel Woolf will be delivering the 12th annual Barbara Early-Vreeland Lecture at 7:30 p.m., March 6, in the Baldwin Hall Little Theatre. Woolf, professor of history and classics and dean of the faculty of arts at University of Alberta, Edmonton, Canada, will speak about "Ancestry and Authority in Early Modern England."

He will discuss the topic from his forthcoming book, "The Social Circulation of the Past: English Historical Culture, 1500-1730," at his lecture. The book will be published by Oxford University Press.

Woolf holds a doctoral degree from Oxford University. He has published widely on Renaissance Europe and early modern England. His most recent book is titled "Reading History in Early Modern England," published by Cambridge University Press in 2000.

The Barbara Early-Vreeland Lecture, established by Joseph Vreeland in memory of his wife who graduated from the University in 1973, gives the Truman community the opportunity to hear public lectures by scholars of international reputation.

Contact David K. Robinson, associate professor of history, at 785.4321 or e-mail drobinso@truman.edu if you would like more information about the lecture.

Safebrake Speaker to Present Lecture on Highway Safety Awareness for Midterm Break

Penny Bailey, a motivational speaker on highway safety, will speak about her personal experiences with automobile accidents and reasons to drive safely at 7 p.m., March 4, in Baldwin Auditorium. Her presentation is a part of a highway safety awareness campaign known as "Safebrake." It is sponsored by Eta Sigma Gamma.

Eta Sigma Gamma is Truman's national professional health science honorary. They have chosen the week of March 3-7 for Safebrake to promote safe driving throughout the upcoming midterm break. An information table will be set up from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., March 5-7, in the Student Union Building.

The Flame to the Second Century will be lit from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., March 4, dedicated to those who have lost their lives in highway collisions. A poster with the names of Truman students who have died on local highways will be placed adjacent to the flame. Truman has lost a total of 11 students to automobile-related crashes since 1995.

"Safebrake is a safe driving campaign that allows our students who have died on the highways to not have lost their lives in vain," Liz Carpenter, Eta Sigma Gamma president and head of Safebrake, said.

"Their memories can help save more students lives. In the four years that Safebrake has been active on Truman campus a decrease in student deaths due to automobile accidents has been witnessed and last year every Truman student returned safely."

Students are encouraged to stop by the SUB to take an active role and see what can be done. Contact Emily Forsyth at 785.5645 for more information.

The Wind Symphony will perform at 8 p.m., March 6, in the Ophelia Parrish Performance Hall. Among the works performed will be "Lincolnshire Posy" by Percy Grainger, "Be Thou My Vision" by David Gillingham, and "Theme and Variations" by Arnold Schoenberg.

The Wind Symphony will be conducted by Dan Peterson, and assisted by Graduate Teaching Assistant Michael James.

Both concerts will last no more than one hour and are free and open to the public.

Ward to Present Human Origins Lecture

Carol Ward, from the department of anthropology at the University of Missouri-Columbia, will lead a seminar titled "Human Origins: Newest Evidence of our Earliest Ancestors" at 7 p.m., March 18, in the SUB Alumni Room.

Carol Ward

Ward's expertise is in anthropology and anatomy and her interests include the evolution of humans and their closest relatives, ape and monkeys. Ward's research focuses on fossils from East and South Africa, primarily Kenya. She takes a mechanical approach to the interpretation of the postcranial skeleton and uses these principles to reconstruct the behavior of extinct animals.

Ward's current research involves the description and interpretation of early hominid fossils from Ethiopia. She studies the functional anatomy of the spines and the hands of modern and fossil humans and of earlier relatives.

Ward's visit to Truman is co-sponsored by Truman State University, Kirksville College of Osteopathic Medicine and Sigma Xi, the scientific research society. Contact Cynthia Cooper at 785.4082 for more information or if you wish to meet with Ward during her visit to Truman March 18. Admission is free and open to the public.

Scholarship Opportunities Available

Several scholarship opportunities are available for Truman students.

The American Chemical Society Scholars Program is currently accepting applications. Applicants must be pursuing a degree in the chemical science fields such as chemistry, biochemistry, chemical engineering, materials science and environmental science. Contact <http://www.chemistry.org/scholars> for more information.

The A.R. Zipf Fellowship has been established to encourage students who are planning careers in information management. Applicants should be studying information science, information technology, engineering, and/or business. Award amount is $8,000 and the application deadline is April 1. Applications and instructions may be obtained from their Web site at <http://www.clir.org/fellowships/zipf/zipf.html>.

The National Association of Water Companies (NAWC) is soliciting applications for its J.J. Barr Scholarship in the amount of $5,500, to be awarded for the 2003-04 academic year. Awards are limited to graduating college seniors or current graduate students in graduate degree-seeking programs. Application deadline is April 1.

The American Institute of Certified Public Accountants is now accepting applications for the John L. Carey Scholarships Program. Scholarships are available to all liberal arts degree holders of any regionally-accredited U.S. institution who wish to pursue a CPA certificate. Scholarships are given based on academic achievement, leadership and future career interests and are contingent upon acceptance in a graduate accounting program. Each year, up to seven recipients will be awarded $5,000 and will be eligible for renewal for one or more years, provided satisfactory scholarship progress is maintained. Application deadline is April 1. Visit the Web at <http://www.aicpa.org/members/div/career/edu/jlcs.htm>.

Contact the Financial Aid Office in McClain Hall 103 for more information about any of the scholarships or to pick up an application.
