Banner 7 Software Upgrade

An upgrade to the Banner system is scheduled to begin at 5 p.m., Feb. 17 and will continue until Feb. 20.
Administrative users as well as self-service (Web) users, including staff, students, and faculty, will not have access to Banner during the upgrade period.

The login method and navigation for administrative users will change significantly once the upgrade is complete. Login instructions and invitations to navigation training will be sent to administrative users via e-mail.
Student and faculty access to Banner self-service (Web) will not be affected once the upgrade has been completed.

Nelson to Present Baldwin Lecture

Craig E. Nelson,
National Carnegie
Scholar and professor emeritus at Indiana University, will visit Truman on Feb. 15 as the 2006 Baldwin Lecturer. His lecture, "Maps for Understanding Liberal Education," will be at 12:45 p.m. in the Student Union Building Georgian Room, immediately following the Baldwin Luncheon.

Craig E. Nelson
2006 Baldwin Lecturer

Nelson will also present a concurrent session during the University Conference Day schedule. This session, "Balancing Rigor and Nurture in the College Classroom," will be at 10 a.m., Feb. 15. All staff, students and faculty are welcome to attend both sessions.

Nelson joined the faculty at Indiana University in Bloomington in 1966. His discipline research extends to more than 60 articles and book chapters focused primarily on evolution and ecology. He has written dozens of articles on teaching which have addressed a wide variety of subjects, including critical thinking, mature valuing, diversity and the teaching of evolution. Nelson has taught several courses in biology as well as intensive freshman seminars and great books and other honors courses. Several collaboratively taught interdisciplinary courses are of particular interest to Truman, especially a three-course, liberal-arts cluster called "Knowing, Knowledge, and Their Limits: Literature, Psychology, and Biology." This course was taken by a young man who is now a member of the Truman faculty, Royce Kallerud, associate professor of English.
In "retirement," Nelson continues to teach NSF-sponsored Chautauqua short courses, tackling the problem of "Increasing the Retention of Under-represented Groups

- and the Learning of All Groups - in Science, Technology, Engineering and Math (STEM) Courses."

During his career, Nelson received several distinguished teaching awards from Indiana University, and was also the recipient of nationally competitive awards from Vanderbilt University and Northwestern University. He has been a Carnegie Scholar since 2000. He was named the "Outstanding Research and Doctoral University Professor of the Year 2000" by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching and the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education (CASE). Nelson was key to the development of Indiana University's award-winning Scholarship of Teaching and Learning (SoTL) program. He received the President's Medal for Excellence, "the highest honor bestowed by Indiana University," in 2001. He was the first president of the International Society for the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning, which he helped found in 2004.

Yet, Nelson may be best known for his irreverent nature. This is likely to appear at any time, and can be noted even within his research questions. For example, in his discipline research, Nelson has asked, "Why should an orchid scare the heck out of its pollinators?" and, "When is stealing a mate preferable to advertising for one?" In his educational research, Nelson has developed questions like, "Must faculty teach in ways that make them easily dispensible?" which was the subject of a National Teaching and Learning Forum published in 2000, or titles like "Skewered on the Unicorn's Horn: The Illusion of a Tragic Tradeoff Between Content and Critical Thinking in the Teaching of Science," which was an invited chapter in a Jossey-Bass book in 1994.

The 2006 Baldwin Lecturer is sponsored by the Center for Teaching and Learning. For more information, contact Julie Lochbaum at 785.4391 or ctl@truman.edu.

"Murderball" Athlete to Present on Campus

Bob Lujano, a Paralympic rugby athlete who was featured in the documentary film "Murderball," will be presenting "No Arms, No Legs, No Problem!" at 7 p.m., Feb. 22, in Baldwin Auditorium.

Lujano will be speaking about the sport of wheelchair rugby, his involvement in the film "Murderball," and living life with a disability.

Lujano was born in Wichita, Kan., and graduated from the University of Texas at Arlington with a Bachelor of Arts in pre-law. He holds a M.S. in sports management from the University of Tennessee. He's also a quadruple amputee. On Jan. 7, 1979, he lost limbs below the elbow and above the knee, due to a rare blood disease called Meningococemia, a rare form of meningitis.

In July 2005, Lujano was featured in the documentary "Murderball." This film, winner of the best documentary award at the 2005 Sundance Film Festival, treks the trials and tribulations of the United States quad rugby team as they prepare for the 2004 Paralympic Games in Athens, Greece.

The sport of "Murderball," quad rugby, combines the finesse of soccer with the bone-jarring collisions of a demolition derby. The athletes use custom wheelchairs that look like something out of a "Mad Max" movie. Players careen around the court with reckless abandon, like a rock-em-sock-em NHL on wheels. They smash. They spill. They swear. They score. During the process, they also unwittingly seek and destroy stereotypes about people with spinal cord injuries.

In his 10 years of playing quad rugby, Lujano has won five U.S. Quad Rugby National Championships with the Lakeshore Demolition of Birmingham, Ala., and three medals playing rugby for Team U.S.A.: a gold at the 1999 World Wheelchair Games, a silver at the World Championships, and a bronze at the 2004 Paralympics. For seven years he has worked at the Lakeshore Foundation, an official U.S. Paralympic Training Site, as coordinator of athletics.

Lujano's presentation is sponsored by Pi Kappa Phi, with funding from the Funds Allotment Council and the Residential College Program. All students, faculty, staff and community members are invited to attend free of charge. There will also be a free screening of the film "Murderball" at 2 p.m., Feb. 19, in Violette Hall 1000.

Contact Lukin Murphy at 785.7162 for more details.

38th Annual Jazz Festival Features Dick Oatts and Mike Kocour

The 38th annual Truman State University Phi Mu Alpha Jazz Festival will present alto saxophonist Dick Oatts and jazz pianist Mike Kocour at 7:30 p.m., Feb. 25, in Baldwin Auditorium.

The event revolves around an all-day jazz competition that brings in more than 25 bands from middle schools and high schools from Missouri, Iowa, Illinois and Kansas.

"The closest cities that have live jazz of this caliber are St. Louis and Kansas City," Jazz Fest Chair Barry Watson said. "But once every year we are able to bring this music that is rich in culture and full of life to the city of Kirksville."

The main concert features Oatts and Kocour, who has been called "one of the most sophisticated pianist in jazz" by the Chicago Tribune, alongside the Truman jazz ensembles. Tickets are $6 at the door. The guest artists will also play a combo concert from 9-11 p.m., Feb. 24, at Patterson's. The combo concert is also open to the public. Tickets cost $6 at the door.

For more information, contact Barry Watson at 660.988.0762 or Tim Aubuchon at 785.4412.

NOTABLES

Warren Gooch, professor of music, had his musical composition, "Truman Fanfare," broadcast throughout East Asia on Hong Kong Public Radio, RTHK Radio 4, this summer. The piece was broadcast on a radio series titled "Works for Me" on July 30. The series is hosted by composer Christopher Coleman. The performance was by the Truman State University Wind Symphony brass section, conducted by Dan Peterson, director of bands.

The Spanish translation of Roy Tanner's book, "The Humor of Irony and Satire in the Tradiciones Peruanas," has been published in Lima, Peru. Tanner is a professor of Spanish.

The Zeta Xi chapter of Beta Theta Pi fraternity at Truman State University initiated 19 new members on Jan. 21. The new initiates are Tyler Bergtholdt, Aaron Crouse, Ben Griffith, Stephen Grzesiowski, Josh Harris, Joey Higgins, Jason Hightower, Brian Hingst, Zach Hollingsworth, Dustin Homer, Alex Koenen, Matthew Mueller, Kurt Munzer, Jim Poelker, Tom Smith, Joe Stauber, Parker Stock, Christopher Theiling, and John Warner. ## Interview Project to Focus on Student Engagement in Leadership and Service Learning Activities

The annual Interview Project will be conducted during the next several weeks of this semester. This year's Interview Project will address issues concerning student engagement in leadership and service learning activities.

Teams of one volunteer faculty member and one student will interview approximately 100 seniors. Faculty members may arrange to conduct interviews with student co-interviewers of their choice, or volunteer student co-interviewers can be arranged. Interview sessions will include refreshments.

Formal interviews will take place on Monday evenings, Tuesday afternoons, Thursday and Friday mornings and Saturday during the day. The interviews should be concluded by midterm break, and the findings will be published for the entire University community.

For more information on the Interview Project contact Jeffrey Vittengl, assistant professor of psychology and director of the Interview Project, at 785.6041.

Student Ambassador Applications Now Available

Student Ambassadors is a group of approximately 150 students whose goal it is to promote Truman State University to prospective students and their families. Ambassadors are in charge of visiting with prospective students, giving tours of campus, and assisting with visit events.

Student Ambassadors are responsible, energetic, and, above all, sincere in their desire to relate all aspects of University life to prospective students and their families.

Applications are now available and can be picked up in the Office of Admission, McClain Hall 205. Completed applications must be returned to the Office of Admission no later than 5 p.m., Feb. 20. Interviews will be conducted Feb. 22-24 and Feb. 27.

Contact Jill Graves at 785.4114 or jgraves@truman.edu for further details.

Valentine Surprise Bags for Sale

The Truman Student Alumni Council is offering parents, students, faculty and staff a chance to surprise someone on campus with a "Valentine Surprise Bag."

Filled with Valentine's Day treats, the bags can be purchased for $10 each Feb. 8-10 in the Advancement Office, located in McClain Hall 101, or at the Truman Online Store at <http://store.truman.edu/valentine>.

Those who purchase a bag can pick them up from 10 a.m.-2 p.m., Feb. 13 and Feb. 14, in the hallway in front of Mainstreet Market with their Truman ID.

Alumni Chapter Offers Students Opportunity

For the past three years, Truman State University's Mid-Atlantic Alumni Chapter has welcomed Truman students interning in Washington, D.C. The alumni chapter provides logistical support such as airport transportation, social events with Truman alumni and networking/mentoring with alumni working or pursuing graduate studies in the area.

For the coming academic year, the alumni chapter would like to extend its services to all Truman students interested in interning/attending graduate school in Washington, D.C., suburban Maryland, or Northern Virginia.

Interested students should contact Intern Coordinator Anne Baum at Hyattsville@gmail.com or 301.613.1044.
