SAFEBRAKE Activities on Campus

Health science honorary fraternity Eta Sigma Gamma will sponsor a highway safety awareness campaign on Truman's campus March 3-10.

The purpose of SAFEBRAKE is to promote safe driving among students, particularly during the upcoming midterm break.

From 1-3 p.m., March 3, the Missouri Highway Patrol will do a roll-over car simulation behind the Physical Plant. Missouri State Highway Patrol Sgt. Brent Burnhardt will be available to answer questions and give tips for safe driving, express the importance of safe driving habits and demonstrate what happens in a crash following the simulation.

Truman's Flame to the Second Century will be lit from 6-8 p.m., March 6, in honor of those who have lost their lives in automobile accidents. A flower memorial will be set up near the flame between March 6-10 with a sign displaying the names of Truman students who died on local highways. All Kirksville residents and members of the University community are welcome to visit the memorial.

Other SAFEBRAKE activities include a motivational speech at 6 p.m., March 6, in the Student Union Building Governors Room. Penny Bailey, assistant director of "Think First" Missouri, will speak about her personal experience with an automobile accident at the age of 17 and reasons to drive safely.

Students, faculty and staff can also gather information about safe driving at an informational table set up in the Student Union Building throughout the week.

For more information on SAFEBRAKE, contact Emily Forsyth at 319.560.9735.

Sorority Sponsors Eating Disorders Week

Truman service sorority Alpha Sigma Gamma is raising awareness of eating disorders among Kirksville residents and members of the University community.

Eating Disorders Awareness Week, through March 3, is designed to foster a better understanding of eating disorders and their effects.

Events for the week will begin with an Open Mic Night from 7-9 p.m., Feb. 28, in the Student Union Building Down Under.

On March 1, all interested individuals can participate in free eating disorders screenings from 9-11 a.m., at the University Counseling Center and from 4-5 p.m., at the Student Recreation Center.

The week's events will also include a panel discussion from 7-8 p.m., March 1, in Violette Hall 1010. Experts in the field of eating disorders will discuss their personal knowledge and experiences and be available to answer questions from audience members.

The week will conclude with a balloon release and vigil ceremony from 5-5:30 p.m., March 2, near the flag pole on the Quadrangle.

Additionally, informational tables will be set up in the Student Union Building and McClain Hall throughout the week. Visitors at the table can purchase eating disorder scrub pants, T-shirts and/or balloons to which the name of a loved one afflicted by an eating disorder or an inspirational message may be attached for the balloon release on March 2. Money from the scrub pants, T-shirt and balloon sales will be donated to eating disorders research.

For more information on any of these events, contact Mandy Wortmann at alw230@truman.edu, 627.5574 or 314.795.6329.

Truman Faculty Forum

"Puncturing Surfaces: An Examination of the Creative Process"

Aaron Fine, associate professor of art, will present this forum.

7 p.m.

March 2

SUB Alumni Room

Fine will focus on the process of creating a body of work, as well as the connections between his creative research and the work of other artists at various points in history. Specifically, he will focus on the theme of "surfaces" in his paintings to facilitate a discussion of how the artist works and how that relates to a cultural context.

A reception will follow and be accompanied by an exhibition of Fine's artwork.

For more information, contact Janice Grow-Maizena at 785.4390.

Global Issues Colloquium

"The Transformational Imperative of the United States Army"

Major Steven Konecny, assistant professor of military science, will present this lecture.

7 p.m.

March 2

Violette Hall 1000

Explore issues today's army faces as it meets the mandate to transform for the 21st century, including deploying combat-ready troops, fighting a global war on terror, maintaining the quality of the all-volunteer force, and more.

For more information, call the Center for Teaching and Learning at 785.4391.

The last day to register to vote in Adair County is March 8.

Call 665.3350 for more information.

TruTech Challenge Winners Named

The Teaching/Learning Technology Roundtable (TLTR) has announced the grand prize winners of the annual TruTech Challenge. Janice Saffir, professor of music, and the Top Secret Research (TSR) Communication Disorders student research group advised by Paula Cochran, professor of communication disorders, took top honors in the competition of faculty, staff and student projects showcasing effective educational uses of technology.

Saffir submitted her demonstration of how a sequencing program could be used to illustrate various elements of musicality.

The TSR group submitted their consulting work in helping to develop software that bookmarks parts of a DVD for in-class use.

Both grand-prize winning projects received personal digital assistants (PDA) donated by Dell.

For their high-quality efforts, all 17 TruTech Challenge participants were awarded $10 gift certificates donated by the Truman Bookstore.

All of the TruTech Challenge projects are publicly viewable at <http://moodle.truman.edu/moodle/course/view.php?id=39>.

Click on the "Login as Guest" button to see the projects.

The TruTech Challenge prizes were awarded at Truman's Fourth Annual Technology Fair on the afternoon of the University Conference, Feb. 15. The TLTR sponsored the Fair and the TruTech Challenge.

Truman's Forensic Team Captures Multiple Championships at State Tournament

Fourteen members of the Truman Forensic Union traveled to Drury University in Springfield, Mo., Feb. 17-19, for the Missouri Association of Forensic Activities' annual State Championship Tournament. Truman captured four individual state championships and qualified one student for the prestigious Interstate Oratorical Contest. The squad brought home a total of 26 different awards.

Elizabeth Hobbs, a senior biology major from Newton, Kan., took state championships in impromptu speaking and the pentathlon. Meghana Kunkala, a senior biology major from Chino, Calif., took state championships in extemporaneous speaking and rhetorical criticism.

Also in extemporaneous speaking, Trevor Alexander, a senior economics and English double major from Gladstone, Mo., took third, while Chris Dove, a sophomore biology and sociology/anthropology double major from Chesterfield, Mo., took fourth and was the top-ranked novice competitor in the tournament. In informative speaking, Stefani Wittenauer, a junior communication and political science double major from Belleville, Ill., took third place.

In Lincoln-Douglas Debate, Dylan Rothermel, a sophomore economics major from Homewood, Ill., was the runner-up to the state champion from Drury University. Three Truman debaters were among the top 10 speakers in this event.

In parliamentary debate, Truman took three teams to elimination rounds and had four of the top 10 individual debate speakers.

In overall tournament honors, Truman took second in debate sweepstakes after being narrowly edged-out by Drury University. Truman placed third in both individual events sweepstakes and combined debate and individual events sweepstakes.

Capping off the event was Hobbs' second-place finish in Original Oratory, qualifying her to compete at the prestigious Interstate Oratorical Contest, to take place in April in Pensacola, Fla.

NOTABLES

The Truman chapter of Beta Theta Pi fraternity won the Midwest Region Self-Governance Award at the first Midwest Keystone Regional Leadership Conference that took place Feb. 18 in St. Louis.

Rebecca Gordon, a junior Spanish and pre-secondary education major from Kirkwood, Mo.; Joshua Jones, a senior political science major from Kirkwood, Mo.; and Laura Najjar, a freshman Spanish major from St. Louis; represented Truman State University in the Midwest Intercollegiate Racquetball Tournament that took place Feb. 17-19 at Vetta Sports Concord in St. Louis. Gordon, one of the top-ranked women players in Missouri, led the team by earning 360 of the team's 494 total points. Gordon finished second in the women's gold division, while the combination of Gordon and Jones finished second in the mixed doubles division. Najjar also finished strong in the women's red division, and Jones finished first in the men's white division. Overall, Truman finished in 10th place, beating out schools such as The Ohio State University and the University of Wisconsin.

Mark Spitzer, assistant professor of English, recently had his book "The Pigs Drink from Infinity: Poems 1995-2001" published by Spuyten Duyvil Press in New York. He has also again been nominated for a Pushcart Prize.

Robert Tigner, associate professor of psychology, was recognized as the Outstanding Regional Friend of Beta at the first Midwest Keystone Leadership Conference of fraternity Beta Theta Pi that took place Feb. 18 in St. Louis. The award was presented in recognition of Tigner's 10 years of service as chapter adviser, his work on the Men of Principle Steering Committee, and his receipt of the Dr. Edward Taylor Advisor of the Year Award.

Honor Society Donates Books to Library

Officers of the Truman chapter of Phi Kappa Phi National Honor Society recently donated a set of reference books titled "The Uniting States" to the Adair County Public Library.

This marks the ninth year for the book donation project and the group hopes to continue it as an annual event to support the local community.

Henry Smits Lecture

"Illness and Identity: The Leper That Lurks in Us All"

Gerald G. Osborn, lecturer in philosophy, will present this lecture.

7-9 p.m.

March 8

SUB Alumni Room

Philosophically, identity implies sameness, but paradoxically people maintain a sense of personal identity in the midst of lives changing constantly. Illness and injury can alter this abiding sense of sameness and can become an affront to people's personal identity. In its most malignant form, the process becomes all-consuming and the person becomes their disease.

A psychiatrist, teacher and consultant, Osborn's areas of research center on the interfaces between psychiatry and primary-care medicine and in medical ethics and history.
