Kohlenberg Lyceum Series Welcomes Performers Tonic Sol-fa to the Stage

The Kohlenberg Lyceum Series will showcase harmony quartet Tonic Sol-fa at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 26 in Baldwin Auditorium.

This Minnesota-based group is known for its unconventional combination of just four voices and a tambourine. At their Truman performance Tonic Sol-fa will showcase an interactive holiday set including well-known Christmas songs from past and present holiday albums.

Tonic Sol-fa has received numerous recognitions across the nation, establishing themselves as a holiday institution with their annual PBS Christmas specials, as well as appearing on NBC's "Today Show" and the pages of Newsweek magazine. This Emmy award-winning quartet has even shared stages with the likes of Garrison Keillor and Jay Leno.

Tickets will be available early starting Nov. 12, due to the Thanksgiving holiday. Students may pick up their free ticket at the Student Activities Board Office in the Student Union Building. Faculty and staff may get their free tickets at the information desk in the Student Union Building. General admission tickets cost $7 and are available at the Truman Cashiers Window in McClain Hall or downtown at Edna Campbells.

Tonic Sol-fa

Tickets may also be purchased online at lyceum.truman.edu. Truman Bookstore – Follett Higher Education Group is a Platinum level sponsor of this event.

Theatre Department Premieres "You Can't Take It With You" Nov. 7-10

Curtains will rise for Truman Theater's performance of the comedic play "You Can't Take It With You" at 8 p.m. Nov. 7-10 in Ophelia Parrish's Severns Theatre.

"You Can't Take it With You" is a Pulitzer Prize for Drama-winning production that first premiered Dec. 14, 1936. The plot surrounds the laughable story of the strange happenings possible when two young people, Alice Sycamore and Tony Kirby, fall in love. Both are of families with very different backgrounds, and they soon find out the chaos involved in attempting to manage a relationship while their families are at odds.

The play is composed of a cast of around 20 students and is directed by Ron Rybkowski. Neva Sheaffer and Adam Hunn will play the roles of Alice Sycamore and Tony Kirby respectively.

Admission to the performance is free and tickets may be reserved prior to opening night by calling the Truman State University Box Office at 660.785.4515. The public is encouraged to attend.

Family Day 2013 Scheduled

Truman State University will celebrate Family Day Sept. 21, 2013.

All future updates to the Family Day schedule will be posted at about.truman.edu/family.asp. Visitor information can be found at about.truman.edu/visit.asp. Call 660.785.4016 with any questions.

STUDY ABROAD SCHOLARSHIPS AVAILABLE THROUGH TRUMAN FOUNDATION

Applications for Truman State University Foundation Study Abroad Scholarships can now be accessed online.

Foundation Study Abroad Scholarships are supported by gifts donated by alumni and friends of the University.

Preference is given to students with no previous collegiate-level study abroad experience who have been accepted for participation in a program for which tuition is paid to Truman.

Eligible programs include: all Truman faculty-led summer study abroad programs; all ISEP programs (with the exception of ISEP Direct); Missouri/London program; Truman exchange programs in China-Shanghai; France-Nice, Paris, Angers; Germany-Weisbaden; Italy-Lucca, LaSpezia; Japan-Tokyo; Spain-Burgos, Madrid, San Sebastian.

Applications are due by midnight Jan. 24. To apply, go to secure.truman.edu/studyabroadscholarships/.

Study abroad applications will be reviewed immediately following the deadline and recipients will be notified in February. Applications for the majority of Foundation scholarships will be available in February for the 2013-2014 academic year.

SERVE Center Honors NMCAA as Community Partner of the Year

The Northeast Missouri Community Action Agency (NMCAA) received the "Community Partner of the Year Award" and was recognized at the Community Partner Appreciation Luncheon, Oct. 30.

The Community Partner of the Year Award is given by the SERVE Center to an outstanding community member or agency that has worked closely with the University to promote public scholarship amongst Truman students.

NMCAA was nominated by the Communication Disorders program at Truman, which operates the Speech and Hearing Clinic. The NMCAA brings hundreds of children to the clinic for annual speech-language and hearing screenings for all those enrolled in their Early and regular Head Start programs.

The outreach of NMCAA to the CMDS program has allowed students to gain experience through opportunities to present, observe and research the population served by Early Head Start and Head Start.

Past research projects have focused on examining the validity of a common instrument used for screening speech-language development, identifying a checklist for early signs of autism, and examining staff and parent perceptions of the speech-language development in children attending Head Start.

The collaboration between NMCAA and Truman's Speech and Hearing Clinic has worked to ensure that cooperative arrangements are developed, implemented and preserved for the community and CMDS students.

Middle Schoolers Explore Future Careers

A Truman student helps a group of middle school students in the Nursing Lab on campus. Approximately 120 seventh and eighth grade students from Green City, Mo., and Milan, Mo., spent Oct. 5 visiting campus. They toured campus and attended presentations from Admissions, ROTC, Upward Bound and the School of Health Sciences and Education departments. All programs were interactive and provided students with information about topics of their interest in health professions and education, and possible careers in these fields. Members of the School of Health Sciences and Education dean's team facilitated the day.

Apply Now for the Junior Fellows Program

Upperclassmen interested in pursuing a career in international affairs may now apply for the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace's competitive fellowship, which focuses on providing real-world experience and expert insight into various aspects of the profession.

Around 8-10 fellows are selected to work at the Carnegie Endowment in Washington, D.C. The program is a full-time, one-year commitment. Applicants should possess a keen interest in monitoring and advancing global cooperation among nations, especially concerning the U.S.'s role in the international community.

Fellows work directly with leading scholars as research assistants for Carnegie Endowment projects. Areas of emphasis include nuclear policy, democracy building, energy and climate issues, international economics, international security, Middle East studies, Asia related issues, and Russian and Eurasian affairs.

Participants have the opportunity to conduct research for books, participate in meetings with high-level officials, contribute to congressional testimony and organize briefings attended by scholars, activists, journalists and government officials.

The application deadline for the Junior Fellows Program is Dec. 1. For further information, visit carnegieendowment.org or contact Maria Di Stefano at mdistefa@truman.edu.

Truman Speech and Debate Fares Well at Recent Tournaments

Truman's speech and debate team traveled to two tournaments in October, bringing home a team championship and 16 individual awards.

Individual events competitors traveled to the Bradley/Illinois State University swing tournament, which took place in Normal, Ill., Oct. 5-7.

Junior Arielle Long-Seabra placed seventh in prose interpretation, qualifying her for the national tournament in April.

Freshmen Dillion Laaker and Blake Bixler also qualified for nationals by advancing to the final round of novice extemporaneous speaking. Laaker placed second and Bixler took fourth in the round.

Freshman David Cook took fifth place in novice prose interpretation, and Cook and his partner, freshman Sarah Stark, were recognized as the top novices at the tournament in duo interpretation.

At the Dale Carnegie swing tournament, hosted by the University of Central Missouri in Warrensburg, Mo., Oct. 19-20, Truman won the team debate sweepstakes award and placed second out of 15 schools in speech and debate combined sweepstakes.

During the first day of the tournament, junior Kristen Wright won the Lincoln-Douglas debate competition, beating out 42 competitors.

Junior Myra Milam and sophomore Maddie Ebert advanced to the semifinal round, earning them a place among the top four debaters at the tournament. Milam was also named the third best speaker.

The next day, Milam placed in the top eight debaters by advancing to the quarterfinal round and was recognized as the fifth best speaker. Ebert advanced to the octofinal round of the top 16 debaters.

In individual events, Long-Seabra won prose interpretation and placed fourth in dramatic interpretation. Sophomore Codi Caton earned fifth place in prose interpretation and freshman Sarah Muir took sixth in impromptu speaking. These awards gave Truman three more qualifications to the national tournament.

CMDS to Host Graduate Student Open House

The Truman Communication Disorders (CMDS) Department will host a Graduate Student Open House from 10 a.m.-1:30 p.m. Nov. 10 in the Health Sciences Building 2203.

All prospective students interested in pursuing a master's degree in communication disorders from Truman are invited to attend. Information regarding the CMDS graduate program, the profession, employment opportunities and funding for graduate school will be provided, along with the opportunity to meet faculty, alumni and students of the program.

RSVP to Connie Ikerd at chelton@truman.edu.
