Educator of the Year Search Narrows

Truman’s Educator of the Year committee has announced six semifinalists from the field of nominated professors.

The decision for finalists was based on the nomination form submitted, the professors’ essay response and the classroom surveys of the professors’ students.

The finalists include: John Ishiyama, professor of political science; Jeannie Mitchell, associate professor of biology; Maria Nagan, assistant professor of chemistry; Eric Patterson, associate professor of chemistry; Priscilla Riggle, associate professor of English; and Lynn Rose, associate professor of history.

Between April 15-22, the committee will sit in on lectures in the finalists’ classes. They will choose the winner at the conclusion of the interviews.

The new Educator of the Year will be announced at a banquet at 6 p.m., May 3, in the Student Union Building Georgian Room. Students, faculty and staff can now purchase tickets until April 28, in the Student Senate Office. Tickets are $10 for faculty and staff and $7.50 for students. Students who have a meal plan can use one meal toward the purchase and pay $4.50.

Members of Student Senate, Phi Kappa Phi and the Pershing Society comprise the Educator of the Year Committee.

Truman Listed as one of “America’s Best Value Colleges”

Truman State University is being recognized as one of the nation’s best values by The Princeton Review “America’s Best Value Colleges” 2006 edition.

To produce the ranking, the New York-based education services company examined academic rating, financial aid rating, tuition GPA (or the real cost of college) and student borrowing of each school.

Specifically, they looked at how each school stacked up against all the others in those four areas and the data they collected from the administrators at more than 350 colleges, and surveys of students attending them.

“Bottom line: the 81 schools that met our criteria for this book are all great college education deals,” said Robert Franek, vice president of publishing for The Princeton Review.

In addition, The Princeton Review lists Truman in the category Best in the Midwest.

Free Enterprise Team Takes First in Missouri Contest

Truman’s Students in Free Enterprise (SIFE) organization was named a SIFE USA Regional Champion at the overall competition in St. Louis, April 7.

The team won numerous distinctions after presenting a report of their yearlong community outreach projects to a panel of business leaders.

Among the awards, they were named a finalist in the SIFE USA National Free Market Economics Competition sponsored by Aflac; a finalist in the SIFE Entrepreneurship Competition sponsored by Sam’s Club, a finalist in the HSBC Education Trust and the Corporate, Investment Banking and Markets Division of HSBC; and a finalist in the SIFE USA National Personal Financial Success Skills Competition.

The team now will advance to the national level of SIFE competition at the SIFE USA National Exposition May 22-24, in Kansas City, Mo.

SIFE is an international, professional and service organization that allows members to develop leadership, teamwork and communication skills through learning, practicing and teaching the practices of free enterprise.

Taner Edis, assistant professor of physics, presented an invited talk as part of a symposium on “Teaching Evolution and the Challenge of Intelligent Design” at the 66th Annual Meeting of the Association of Southeastern Biologists April 15. Also, Edis’ “The Return of the Design Argument,” a review of two books about evolution and design, was published in Philosophy Now, March/April 2005.

Betty McLane-Iles, professor of French, has been honored by the national office of French Honorary Society Pi Delta Phi, for 20 years of service as adviser and founder of the Truman chapter Iota Tau. McLane-Iles has also been notified that her essay, “Reflections on France” will be published in the forthcoming Well-Versed, the annual literary journal of the Columbia chapter of the Missouri Writers’ Guild. Her short story “Cities from the Sea” is a finalist in the international St. Petersburg literary contest as well. She has been offered a stipend to enable participation in the annual SLR literary conference in St. Petersburg, Russia.

Gregg Siewert, professor of French, received a medallion as recognition by the national organization of Pi Delta Phi for 10 years of service as adviser of the Truman chapter of Pi Delta Phi (Iota Tau). Officers and members recognized Siewert’s service at the semester induction ceremony of the local chapter April 10.

Four Truman communication majors presented their work for the public relations division at the annual Central States Communication Association conference in Kansas City, Mo., April 10. Kristina Sis, senior communication science major from Omaha, Neb., spoke of her work with the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation. Rebecca Martin, junior English and pre-education major from St. Peters, Mo., and Lindsay Pittenger, senior business administration and communication double major from Kansas City, Mo., presented their public relations/marketing campaign for http://price-monk.com. Trevor Marlow, senior English and communication double major from Columbia, Mo., screened the promotional video that he and Emily Finnegant, junior communication major from St. Louis, created for the Franklin Street Singers. Marlow explained the video as a part of the duo’s overall campaign they designed. The students were part of an undergraduate panel that included presenters from Central Missouri State University, Illinois State University, Indiana State University and Indiana Wesleyan University.

The Financial Aid Office has announced the availability of the following scholarship.

The Missouri Farm Bureau Foundation has announced that it will be awarding up to two $500 scholarships to people pursuing a degree in agriculture. Applicants or their families must be members of the Missouri Farm Bureau.

Applications are available in Barnett Hall 161 and must be returned to Michael Seipel in Barnett Hall 151 by April 21.

Marjoke Breuning, associate professor of political science, presents Sam Murphey, junior communication and English double major from Rolla, Mo., with the first Award for Excellence in Interdisciplinary Studies. He was given the award for “Critical Engagement in North Korea: A Strategy for Ending Nuclear Proliferation” written under the direction of Breuning during the fall semester 2004. Papers showing exceptionally sophisticated interdisciplinary inquiry were nominated by instructors, and then blind-reviewed by a committee of JINS faculty.

Truman, Kirksville Community Benefit from Recycling Center

More than a year ago Truman State University held a ribbon cutting for a new glass recycling machine that would provide area residents the option of recycling their glass.

“The success of the program was contingent upon the citizens willingness to bring their rinsed glass to Truman’s Recycling Center and they did,” Howard Worcester, Truman recycling coordinator, said.

The first two months of operation the Center averaged approximately 100 pounds of glass a day. Today, the Center averages more than 400-500 pounds a day.

The machine grinds glass to a course sand, which can then be used as drainage fill, pothole filler, sidewalk construction and numerous artistic projects. Truman has already used more than 30 tons on campus in various cement and pipe fill projects. The recycled glass will continue to be used in various construction projects.

Recycled glass was used in the morning Rotary Club project for a new walking trail near the community center on the Kirksville Senior Living Campus in September 2004. The recycled glass serves as the sand base of a four-feet wide concrete sidewalk.

The machine was purchased with grant money from the State of Missouri Region C Solid Waste Management District.

The recycled glass may be purchased for $5 a ton. For more information about the Center or purchasing the recycled glass, call Worcester at 660.785.7672.

Recycling Center Offers Free Supplies

The Truman State University Recycling Center is now offering free “lightly used” school supplies including notebooks, binders and folders. It also has a selection of used books available.

Furthermore, the Recycling Center has been collecting gift wrapping material that may be used to wrap gifts.

All are encouraged to check out the supplies at the Recycling Center.
