McCall Named Truman's First Rhodes Scholar

Andrew McCall has been named a Rhodes scholar, placing him in a distinct group, and making him the first Truman student to be so honored.

"I like to think that it is a way for me to thank my professors for the incredible growth they've guided me through while I've been here," McCall said. "Through me, the Rhodes Trust is acknowledging the great teaching that goes on at Truman."

Rhodes scholars were announced Nov. 22. McCall, a senior philosophy and religion major from St. Louis was among the 32 recipients. Created in 1902, the Rhodes scholarship covers all expenses of two to three years of study at Oxford University in England.

McCall said he was encouraged to apply by Patricia Burton, professor of philosophy.

"It seemed like the only avenue into graduate school that would acknowledge, and in fact reward, the amount of time I have invested in sports and music," McCall said.

Captain of the swimming team, he is five-time Division II All-American in swimming and a violinist in the University Symphony.

After submitting his application in September, McCall heard nothing from the selection committee until November. He was invited to a reception dinner and series of interviews the weekend of Nov. 20. After his third interview Nov. 21 he learned he had been selected.

"By that point my nerves were exhausted and I felt nothing but relief," he said.

McCall plans to read for the Bachelor of Philosophy, roughly the equivalent to a masters program at any other school, beginning in the fall of 2010. After two years at Oxford he plans to pursue a Ph.D. somewhere and ultimately teach philosophy at a university.

While McCall may be the first Truman Rhodes scholar, he said he encourages others to apply in the future.

"It's a great opportunity, and there's no reason Truman students shouldn't take advantage of it," he said.

Project Benefits Truman and Kirksville Primary Students

The Health and Exercise Sciences (HES) Department has partnered with Kirksville Primary School (KPS) to create an interactive learning environment for both college and elementary students.

Chris Lantz, HES department chair, and Janice Young, HES assistant professor, began the Kirksville Primary Partners Project nearly two years ago.

Originally started as an environmental buddy program, the idea came from a conversation between Lantz and second-grade KPS teacher, Debbie Lechner. She expressed to Lantz she wanted her students to be involved in service, and Lantz saw an opportunity for Truman students to help.

Since then, the program has grown to include more elementary classrooms and a variety of topics.

HES students present a range of lessons including nutrition, environmental health, recycling, physical activity, wellness and more. Past projects at KPS have included making recycled paper, picking up litter and assisting with Earth Week activities.

Lantz said countless Truman students have participated in the program.

"Our students interact with their students, and largely, the faculty sit back and watch the interactions happen," Lantz said.

The interactions provide a hands-on learning experience for both KPS and Truman students.

"Our kids probably benefit from that relationship more so because they are responsible for delivering content," Lantz said, referring to the role of Truman students as facilitators and teachers of the activities.

October's activity consisted of a field trip to the University Recycling Center. There, Lechner's students learned about the different products that can be recycled and what can be made from recycled materials.

TRUMAN CLOSES IN ON UNITED WAY GOAL

It is not too late to help Truman “live united” with the United Way of Adair County.

As of Nov. 20, Truman faculty, staff, emeriti, retirees and students had contributed more than $50,000. The Truman community has now met more than 90 percent of its goal.

The community-wide drive is at about 65 percent of its $275,000 goal.

Each contribution makes a significant difference in northeast Missouri. Less than $1 per week, or $50 per year, buys 620 disposable meal trays to be used to provide home-delivered meals to frail and disabled homebound clients. Less than $2 per week, or $100 per year, buys 8 pairs of shoes for children in a shelter. Less than $5 per week, or $250 per year, buys accident and sickness insurance for a Cub Scout Pack—both youth members and leaders. Less than $10 per week, or $500 per year, provides three nights in the safehouse for a family of four. Less than $25 per week provides 300 RSVP volunteers with liability, accident and excess auto insurance while volunteering.

Anyone with questions about the drive, or in need of a pledge form, can contact either of the Truman United Way co-chairs, Joe Hamilton (hamilton@truman.edu) or Deb Kerby (dkerby@truman.edu).

Scholarships Available for Overseas Student Language Learning Programs

The U.S. Department of State has announced the upcoming scholarship competition for the 2010 Critical Language Scholarship (CLS) Program. The program provides funds for overseas intensive summer language institutes in 13 critical-need foreign languages.

The online application for the CLS Program awards is now available. The deadline to apply is Dec. 18.

The CLS Program provides group-based intensive language instruction and structured cultural enrichment experiences for seven to 10 weeks. Students may apply for one language and will be placed at institute sites based on language evaluations after selection. The 2010 CLS Program will include new programs in Indonesian and Japanese.

Levels available for each language are as follows:

*Arabic, Persian: beginning, intermediate or advanced level;

*Azerbaijani, Bangla/Bengali, Hindi, Indonesian, Korean, Punjabi, Turkish, or Urdu: beginning, intermediate or advanced level;

*Chinese, Japanese or Russian: intermediate or advanced level.

Students of diverse disciplines and majors are encouraged to apply. While there is no service requirement attached to CLS Program awards, participants are expected to continue their language study beyond the scholarship period and later apply their critical language skills in their future professional careers.

For more information on the CLS Program and the selection process, visit <http://www.CLScholarship.org>.

New Online Address For Truman Athletics

Finding information about Truman Athletics just became much easier as TrumanBulldogs.com is now the official web address for the Bulldogs.

“The addition of the name TrumanBulldogs.com will be better for our fans, recruits and alumni to find us on the web,” said Assistant Athletics Director Kevin White. “Along with our TrumanBulldogs.com, Facebook and Twitter sites, information about all of our great sports has never been easier.”

TrumanBulldogs.com will link directly to the previous address of <http://gobulldogs.truman.edu>. The website will continue to provide news, schedules, stats and selected live video for the Truman Athletics Department.

Construction Changes Parking for Pershing Arena

With construction beginning on the new addition to the Pershing Building, changes have been made to accommodate parking for arena events.

The public entrance to Pershing Arena for events will now be located on the west side by the concession stand. Bulldog fans will need to park in the new lots on Franklin Street directly across from Pershing Arena. Handicap parking has also moved to the west side but will be located in the small parking lot on the southwest corner of the building.

Construction of the new annex to Pershing Building is scheduled to last until the summer of 2011. The new lots on the west should actually increase the available parking on game days.

NOTABLES

Masahiro Hara, associate professor of Japanese, presented a paper titled "Evidence against the shallow structure hypothesis from processing of scrambling in Japanese" at the 32nd Second Language Research Forum at Michigan State University Nov. 1. His paper "L2 processing of Japanese scrambling under the Parallel Architecture framework" appeared in Proceedings of the 10th Generative Approaches to Second Language Acquisition Conference. Hara's paper "Evidence for L2 syntactic gap-processing in Japanese scrambling sentences" is forthcoming in Proceedings of the Generative Approaches to Language Acquisition North America 3

Conference. In addition, his paper "Second language gap processing of Japanese scrambling" has been accepted for inclusion in Second Language Processing and Parsing. Collaboration with Julie Minn, instructor of Chinese, and Xiaofen Chen, associate professor of economics, was essential in the preparation stage of the research.

School of Business faculty members Jim Turner and Bryce Jones had their article, "The Fall of the Per Se Vertical Price Fixing Rule," accepted for publication in the "Journal of Legal, Ethical, and Regulatory Issues."

INTERNSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

Collegium Civitas is now accepting applications for its professional internship program in Warsaw, Poland (June 1-July 31, 2010). Civitas offers students a unique opportunity to undertake professional internships in various areas, including politics, European integration, human rights, civic and political education, civil society, arts, history, Jewish culture and history, economics, business, media and journalism, legal and constitutional affairs, the environment and more. For details, visit <http://www.globaleducationleadership.org/>.

The U.S. Department of Homeland Security HS-STEM Summer Internship Program is accepting applications from undergraduate students with U.S. citizenship for 10-week summer research experiences at federal research facilities. Participants receive a stipend of $500 each week plus transportation expenses to/from their internship location. Deadline to apply is Jan. 5, 2010. Send questions regarding DHS Education Programs to dhsed@orau.org or visit <http://www.orau.gov/dhseducationprograms> for more.

The Institute of International Education has announced the inauguration of the Freeman Indonesia Nonprofit Internship Program (FINIP), funded by the Freeman Foundation. The internship aims to develop student leaders and strengthen the nonprofit sector in Indonesia. IIE will select and pair 10 Indonesian students pursuing U.S. degrees with 10 U.S. undergraduates and arrange internships for them to work together in an Indonesian nonprofit organization. The internship lasts from June 15- Aug. 17, 2010, and will take place in three cities: Jakarta, Bandung and Yogyakarta. Interested American and Indonesian sophomores and juniors enrolled in U.S. institutions are encouraged to apply, using the online application at <http://www.iie.org/programs/finip>. The deadline for submission of completed applications is Feb. 15, 2010. Contact finip@iie.org or visit <http://www.iie.org/programs/finip> for more information.

The Truman in Washington Program facilitates internship opportunities in the Washington D.C. area. Students can intern in their area of interest by working with Truman alumni, The Washington Center (TWC), or independently identified internships. Truman in Washington helps students locate housing in the D.C. area and provides students with support throughout the internship experience. Most internship programs have specific application processes with strict deadlines. Students also have the opportunity to earn academic credit through Truman in Washington, if they choose. Visit the Truman in Washington website at <http://twp.truman.edu> for more information. The site includes application materials, cost estimates, photographs taken by past interns and general information about the D.C. area. Applications for internships through The Washington Center are due by Jan. 19, 2010. Contact Diane Tobin Johnson at djohnson@truman.edu or 785.7852 with any questions regarding an internship in the Washington, D.C. area.

SCHOLARSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

The U.S. Department of Homeland Security Scholarship Program is now accepting scholarship applications for 10-week summer internships at federal research facilities or DHS Centers of Excellence. Positions are open to undergraduate students with U.S. citizenship. The award includes full tuition and fees and a monthly stipend. Application deadline is Jan. 5, 2010. Send questions to dhsed@orau.org or visit <http://www.orau.gov/dhseducationprograms>.

Scholarships are available through Federated Garden Clubs of Missouri, Inc., for the 2010-2011 academic year. Stop by the Financial Aid Office in McClain Hall 103 for more information on eligibility requirements or to obtain an application. One winner from each state may be submitted for the National Garden Club scholarship in the amount of $3,500.

The Missouri Travel Council will offer two $1,000 scholarships to currently enrolled sophomores, juniors or seniors in an accredited college or university in the state of Missouri. Applicants must be pursuing a hospitality-related major such as hotel/restaurant management, parks and recreation, etc., must be a current resident of Missouri, and must have a grade point average of at least 3.0. For more information, visit <http://www.missouritravel.com>. The deadline for applications is March 2, 2010.

Truman in Africa Seeks Textbook Donations

Students and faculty with unwanted or unused textbooks now have an option to donate the books in an effort that benefits the Truman campus, the earth and students around the world.

In an effort to help improve literacy and divert books from landfills, the members of Truman in Africa (TIA) are asking for donations of unwanted college-level books.

Preferred books are those published within the past 10 years or any books used in a college class. Highlighting and writing in books is fine.

TIA is partnering with Better World Books (<http://www.betterworldbooks.com>) to run a book drive that will benefit Invisible Children (<http://www.invisiblechildren.com/home.php>).

Books collected will be put up for sale online to raise a sustainable stream of funding for Invisible Children or sent directly to Africa. If the books cannot be donated or sold, they are then recycled.

For convenience, TIA members will personally collect the used books. Faculty should set donations outside of office doors during the first week of December.

Members will pick up the books between 2-4 p.m. each day. Please mark the books with a sticky-note or piece of paper that says, "TIA" or "Book Drive" so members collect the correct items.
